Chavez for Charity

One of our newest arrivals from our March buyer's market is a new line of bracelets called Chavez for Charity. Chavez for Charity was launched in early 2013 by Julie Chavez. Julie's father spent 23 years running a special education program at Colorado State University and her mother was a superintendent in a Colorado school district. Seeing the impact her parents had on other's lives, Julie wanted a find her own way to make a difference. She decided to create a line of bracelets in ten distinct colors, each representing an individual cause. For each bracelet sold, Chavez for Charity will donate 25% of the gross profits to the designated charity. In the world of retail, this is a substantial donation, as the average donation to such causes is only 1-2%.

The ten charities supported by Chavez for Charity and their corresponding colors are Alex's Lemonade Stand (yellow), Best Friends Animal Society (brown), Dr. Susan Love Research Foundation (pink), Fisher House Foundation (gold), Give for Life (black), Matthew Shepard Foundation (multi-colored), Partners In Health (purple), V-Day (red), Water.org (blue) and Whole Planet Foundation (green.)

Bracelets are sold for $10.95 each, or 3 for $30. We are very excited to be a part of this great movement!

Tips & Tricks

Here's a great tip for hanging pictures on your walls! Use painter's tape to measure the distance between hangers for the wall. Then use the painter's tape to establish the position of the nails on the wall. Use a level to keep it straight and hammer the nail into the right spot!
